

Mother's Day Banquet Was Nice Affair

Mother's Day meant more than a passing observance of the day for the mothers and daughters of St. Mary's parish, as they were honored with a lovely banquet sponsored by the men and boys of the parish. However, the beautiful significance of the day added greatly to the affair.

Yellow and green—springtime colors, predominated in the decorations and these were used in fashioning blooms that adorned walls, windows and lights at the parish hall, with here and there baskets of spring flowers. It was a rare treat for mothers and daughters to sit down to such a lovely meal served by the men and boys, who presided as hosts to perfection. Opening the banquet, little Betty Hewitt, in a sweet manner offered the blessing.

For the program Mrs. Holger F. Peterson presided as toast-mistress in a very lovely manner. As the first number Miss Virginia Charron, who was to give the toast to mothers, also rendered a violin solo. Little Rose and Joanne Bishaw sweetly crooned a melody, following which Miss Virginia gave her toast, followed by Mrs. Emil Kraus, who in her quiet, unassuming way, gave the toast to the daughters. We are pleased to print both of these through the courtesy of the speakers.

Patricia Hope Heric delighted the gathering with a clever tap dance and responded to an encore, and the next number on the program was a pretty duet by Jerrine and Natalie Peterson. The Harmonica band with Joan Montour, Patricia Hewitt, Ruth LaMotte, Ann Weiss, Rosemary Charron, Monica Brady and Louis Kraus made a big hit, and they were encored again and again.

In the absence of Mrs. Horace Shaw, who was unable to participate in the program because of illness, Mrs. C. J. McNamara gave the reading entitled "A Little Parable for Mothers" by Temple Bailey, which was very beautifully given. This we are also pleased to print. Closing the program a rising vote of thanks was given the loyal hosts, and group singing was indulged in.

This, like the Fathers and Sons banquet, was such an enjoyable event that no doubt it will be made a custom from now on to follow on through the years in St. Mary's parish.

Toast to Daughters
'Tis the month of May. Nature waits her sweetest charms; she brings flowers of the fairest, flowers of the rarest to crown the mother of our God—the lovely Queen of the May.

At this joyous season, I find myself very appreciative of the honor of being assigned the toast "Our Daughters." It is a toast that appeals to all mothers and it is one that puts us in a thinking mood. We ask ourselves—Have we mothers with all our love for our daughters, laid a clear-cut, well-defined plan to enable them to enjoy a happy, useful life? In other words have we kept in touch with our daughters and their environment so as to assist them as they older grow? In thinking over this question we cannot afford to overlook the great changes that have taken place in the educational, economic and political condition of women.

During the last 100 years, the educational fields for women have so broadened that no field of learning is closed to her. Economically she is as free as the men for she has her own property rights—politically she can vote and hold office. The field of endeavor for women has broadened and her initiative has quickened. Today women are in the educational field in great numbers—the business world—the professions as well as in the home. But women must not overlook the fact that their greater responsibilities, religious, civic and otherwise. They must value these rights and use their suffrage, their abilities, their moral force for the general welfare. The great problem is to use these advantages with good judgment, which I believe includes right motives. At this point may I urge our daughters to elevate their daily lives through cooperating in religion and civic activities. May you lead the community in the best thought, socially and recreationally, real daughters of the home and church.

I believe that our American daughters are and will continue to live up to the high ideals of womanhood and citizenship under these new conditions, and will keep up the high standard of the American home and transmit to their daughters the same high ideals.

To our daughters we mothers extend our heartiest wishes for a happy and useful life. You shall be all we have not been, All that we shall never be. The brave bright dreams that the passing years have filched away from us, Shall be your heritage. And we who failed to make these dreams come true, Will lead your footsteps up the height

That somewhere waits for you. The vows you pledged you shall fulfill. The cheap allurements that tempted us to pause and turn aside Will never ensnare your climbing feet.

For we shall be near to guide you Beloved daughters of ours!

Toast to Mothers
Toastmistress, Mothers and Friends:

It is indeed a pleasure to be at this lovely affair paying a few words of tribute to our mothers. I can think of no person who is more important in our lives or more deserving of praise than our mothers. It is mother who is our guardian, companion and source of advice through life. Since I cannot express in a few words the praise and thanks due you, mothers, I shall give this little summary of what you really do mean to us:

It is a wonderful thing—a mother. Other folks can love you but only a mother understands. She works for you, looks after you, loves you, forgives you anything you may do, understands you, and the only sad thing she ever does to you is to die and leave you.

Annual School Music Festival

The high school assembly room was packed to capacity Tuesday night as the music department, under the direction of Miss Bath, presented their annual music festival. Originally designed to acquaint the Grayling people with some of the work done in this department during the past year, the program presented a colorful and entertaining evening for approximately 400 music lovers.

The program was well planned and a variety of musical numbers were presented which gave the audience a glimpse of the music work which is carried on from the Kindergarten thru the 12th grade. One number followed another in rapid succession as the master of ceremonies, Clayton Gorman, called them to the front.

To attempt to name the star number on the program would be impossible. All the numbers were well received and each deserves honorable mention. The orchestra, the chorus, the Glee clubs, the Rhythm and Harmonica bands, J. H. Peterson with his trumpet solo, the girls quintet, composed of Jerrine Peterson, Mildred Craft, Virginia Peterson, Dorothy Miller and Natalie Peterson, and last but certainly not least the "Little Bit Independent" girls, Emily Giegling and Rose Bishaw, all have full reason, along with their director, Miss Bath, to feel proud of the program which they presented Tuesday night.

CENTURY OLD RIVER BOAT FOUND IN LOG JAM

Quite a curiosity is the river boat that Adam and LeRoy Horning recently pulled out of the Manistee river 3 miles below Riverview. They were employed in taking out deadheads for George M. Colten, when they found the craft turned upside down in a log jam.

It is a river boat carved out of a log, with a hatchet and knife, evidently by Indians who inhabited these parts several decades ago, and it thought by Grant Shaw to be over 100 years old. It measures 13½ feet from bow to stern, is 13 inches wide at the topmost widest part and measures 8 inches on bottom. Seats are carved out and they are about 3 inches high. The wood is in pretty fair condition, only worms and insects have eaten holes into its sides.

The annual Junior Prom of Frederic High school will be held at the school gymnasium Friday night, May 14. Music is to be by the Poki-Dots of Grayling, dancing starting at 9 o'clock. Admission 60c per couple; 25c extra lady.

A Little Parable For Mothers

(By Temple Bailey)

THE YOUNG MOTHER set her foot on the path of life.

"Is the way long?" she asked.

And her Guide said: "Yes. And the way is hard. And you will be old before you reach the end of it. But the end will be better than the beginning."

But the young Mother was happy, and she would not believe that anything could be better than these years. So she played with her children, and gathered flowers for them along the way, and bathed with them in the clear streams; and the sun shone on them, and life was good, and the young Mother cried, "Nothing will ever be lovelier than this."

Then night came, and storm, and the path was dark, and the children shook with fear and cold, and the Mother drew them close and covered them with her mantle, and the children said, "Oh, Mother, we are not afraid, for you are near, and no harm can come," and the Mother said, "This is better than the brightness of day, for I have taught my children courage."

And the morning came, and there was a hill ahead, and the children climbed and grew weary, and the Mother was weary, but at all times she said to the children, "A little patience, and we are there." So the children climbed, and when they reached the top, they said, "We could not have done it without you, Mother." And the Mother, when she lay down that night, looked up at the stars, and said: "This is a better day than the last, for my children have learned fortitude in the face of hardness. Yesterday I gave them courage. Today I have given them strength."

And the next day came strange clouds which darkened the earth—clouds of war and hate and evil, and the children groped and stumbled, and the Mother said: "Look up. Lift your eyes to the Light." And the children looked and saw above the clouds an Everlasting Glory, and it guided them and brought them beyond the darkness. And that night the Mother said, "This is the best day of all, for I have shown my children God."

And the days went on, and the weeks and the months and the years, and the Mother grew old, and she was little and bent. But her children were tall and strong, and walked with courage. And when the way was hard, they helped their Mother; and when the way was rough, they lifted her, for she was as light as a feather; and at last they came to a hill, and beyond the hill they could see a shining road and golden gates flung wide.

And the Mother said: "I have reached the end of my journey. And now I know that the end is better than the beginning, for my children can walk alone, and their children after them."

And the children said, "You will always walk with us, Mother, even when you have gone through the gates."

And they stood and watched her as she went on alone, and the gates closed after her. And they said: "We cannot see her, but she is with us still. A Mother like ours is more than a memory. She is a Living Presence."

Carl Mickelson Funeral Held Sat.

WIDELY KNOWN AS FISHERMAN AND HUNTER

Carl P. Mickelson, 67, for 39 years a Mason business man, died at 8:45 Wednesday night at the Orr hospital in Mason after a lingering illness. He was taken sick last October. Since the middle of January he had been confined to bed. On April 23 he was taken to the hospital.

Long in Business
Mr. Mickelson was born in Racine, Wisconsin, in 1870. The family moved to Manistee, Michigan, and then to Grayling. When Mr. Mickelson was 16 he entered the employ of the Hanson-Mickelson company at Grayling. In 1898 he came to Mason as owner of the former S. A. Paddock lumberyard and mill.

From 1898 to April of 1920 Mr. Mickelson was in active charge of the lumber business. In 1920 a corporation was formed with Mr. Mickelson the president, Jess N. Baker, vice president and manager, and William S. Coon, secretary and treasurer. With the formation of the corporation Mr. Mickelson withdrew from active management of the lumberyard. A year later he purchased the Paul Cross hardware business. For a short time the business was operated by Mr. Mickelson and Alva Bell as Mickelson-Bell. Then Clarence Haugh purchased Mr. Bell's interest and the name of the store was changed to the Mickelson-Haugh company. Several years ago Mr. Haugh disposed of his interests in the hardware business. The business has been continued under the name of the Mickelson-Haugh company.

In 1900 Mr. Mickelson was married to Miss Mary Staley. One daughter, Frances, was born. There also remain two sisters, Mrs. Florence McGinnis and Mrs. Edwin Meyers of Portland, Oregon. The death of Mr. Mickelson did not come as a surprise to the widow and daughter. They had realized for several days that his condition was grave.

Known in North
There were few places in Michigan where hunters and fishermen gathered that Mr. Mickelson was not well known. It was often said that he knew every foot of ground in the AuSable country. The Mickelsons maintained a summer home on Lake Margrethe near Grayling and Mr. Mickelson was a charter member of several hunting and fishing clubs with camps in Crawford county. He was an ardent fly

Frank Cochran Passed Away

Frank Cochran, age 77 years, a well known resident of Grayling for 30 years, passed away at his home Monday, after a lingering illness of five years duration with heart trouble.

Mr. Cochran was born in Armstrong county, Pennsylvania, March 11, 1860, and his boyhood was spent in the east. In his early years he began learning the carpenter trade and followed that up to five years ago when he had to retire because of ill health. Mr. Cochran did fine work and could match it up with some of the best in his line. In 1907 he came to Grayling and this has been his home since. He was twice married, the second time to Mrs. Mary Atherton of Grayling, in 1920, who with one daughter and three sons of the former marriage survive, Mrs. Oliver Newhouse and Arthur, Detroit, Burt and Harry, Charlotte, and also ten grandchildren.

Mr. Cochran became a member of the Grayling Moose lodge No. 1162 in 1913 and had been an active member since that time. At his funeral that took place yesterday afternoon, there was a nice turnout of the fraternity showing the high esteem in which he was held by his fellow members. Services were held at Mickelson Memorial church, Rev. Edgar Flory officiating. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery, the Moose conducting the service.

The following from out of town came to be in attendance at the funeral: Harry Cochran, Miss Icyphine Cochran, Charlotte, Burt and Robert Cochran, Mrs. Gordon Lozo, Vermontville; Mrs. Alice Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Leon McGregor, John McGregor, Rose City; Mr. and Mrs. D'Alton Griffith, Miss Norma Griffith, Saginaw.

Mrs. Cochran and other remaining members of the family have the sympathy of hosts of friends in their bereavement.

SCHOOL NEWS

Coach Cornell's hard hitting baseball nine scored another victory Friday by whipping Mancelona 16-6. It was rumored before the season opened that Mancelona was the team to beat if we wanted a share of the glory that goes with a Conference trophy, and if that is the case the locals are well on their way to the championship.

Anthony and Tibbets handled the pitching assignment for the Cornell stars and did a noble job. Deckrow aided the Grayling cause by smashing out two hits, along with playing a swell game behind the plate. To Bob Hanson goes the batting honors of the day. Two triples were chalked up by his bat; one missed being a home run by a very few feet.

Tuesday, at the local diamond, the Northern Lights added another scalp to their collection as they romped home on the long end of an 8-1 score.

Jim Peterson did the hurling for the Graylingites and turned in a masterful exhibition during the seven innings he worked. In only one inning, the second, did Kalkaska score, and in that frame the homesters appeared lucky as with none out and the bases full Kalkaska was able to push across only one counter.

With the bad inning out of their system the Green and White proceeded to play airtight ball the rest of the way. In the only other inning where the storm clouds seemed due to gather, a fast double play with one out, Hanson to Chalker to Coutts, wiped the paths clean to end the inning.

Perhaps it might not be amiss to say a word about Peterson's supporting cast who contributed no small bit toward the victory.

Deckrow, behind the bat, handled Peterson's slants in a manner which stamps him as an up-and-coming catcher. The infield, with Coutts on first, Chalker on second, Hanson at the short-stop post, and R. Anthony at the hot corner, seem all set. Grounders or flies all look the same to them, and at the same time a lot of hitting power is concentrated in this quartette. The outfield, composed of Westerholm, Bowen and Tibbets, stopped everything that came their way and also added their bit when the time came to bat.

J-Hop Friday, May 21st
The Juniors plan to present the annual J-Hop Friday, May 21st. Plans for the decorations, etc., are already under way and a big time is assured for all who attend.

Iverson's band "The Melodiers" from Lake City has been secured to play, so plan to reserve Friday, May 21st for the J-Hop.

According to word received by Mr. Poor from the Michigan T.B. Association, a program is planned for Grayling, May 20th. In the afternoon a speaker will address the assembly, and at night will hold an open meeting during which motion pictures of T.B. work will be shown.

Safety Rules For Kite Flying

Observance of a few simple safety rules for kite flying will avoid possible dangers for children, according to Gail Clise, manager for the Michigan Public Service Company in this territory.

"The coming of spring brings the advent of the kite flying season, and because of some hazards in this sport, the Michigan Public Service Company is joining other electric, telephone and telegraph companies throughout the country in warning children to keep their kites away from overhead lines.

"Kites should be flown only in open spaces where there is no likelihood of their coming in contact with electric lines. Especial care should be exercised in choosing the spot, for it should be remembered that the kite string is at an angle and may pass over electric lines a long distance away, perhaps out of sight.

"If a kite should become entangled in electric wires, children should not pull it or make any attempt to remove it. Under no circumstances should they climb a pole and try to bring down the kite. The proper procedure is to call the electric company, telephone company or telegraph company to which the wires belong, and linemen with proper equipment will be sent to take the kite from the lines.

"It is unsafe for children to pull down a kite from electric lines, because in so doing the wires may be pulled together, causing a short circuit. It is possible in such cases that the wires may break and fall to the ground, causing serious injury to anyone who may be near them.

"Construction of the kite should measure up to safety standards also. Kites should NEVER have wire frames. No metal or metallized cord should be used. It is dangerous to make kite strings of wire, tinsel cord or any cord with metal strands in it because such materials are conductors of electricity. It is also important to remember that the kite cord should be kept off the ground where there is any possibility of it becoming damp. A wet kite cord becomes a conductor of electricity when it touches an electric line.

"Kite flying is a fine sport and is entirely safe for children when they fly a properly-made kite in an open space away from electric wires. The observance of these few safety suggestions will not detract from the fun and may prevent accidents."

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis
© Public Ledger, Inc.

YOUR analyses of thumbs have doubtless impressed you with how greatly this important element of the hand varies with the individual in denoting the kind and quality of temperamental expression. This is also true of the fingers. Each expresses not only a basic characteristic of the inner self but also the manner in which it is put to use.

The First or Finger of Ambition.
This finger, sometimes called the Finger of Jupiter, has been held by the most celebrated palmists to be incontrovertible in its indications of the power to command, to attain and hold one's "place in the sun."

Whether this very desirable quality of character is being actually utilized or is merely lying dormant awaiting its owner's recognition, you will find it clearly shown by a first finger that is of unusual straightness and strength.

If of medium length and of square type, the indications are of capability in directing others in the accomplishment of practical results along a variety of lines. It pointed, with a well-defined taper from base to finger tip, the ability to command will be expressed in more idealistic activities, such as drama, art or literature. If of spatulate type, we have the man or woman of alert executive mind which conceives big projects and drives them through no matter what the odds. If long and large-jointed, the indications are of power and ambition aplenty, but the kind that moves with slow and sure deliberation.

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it. So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember!

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low — with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $30 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service — for parts — and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 85 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Check and see how much Ford saves you.

Buffalo Moths

Buffalo moths are not really moths at all, according to an authority—they are beetles, and their proper name is carpet beetle. Why they are called buffalo moths is not known—maybe because of their destructive habits, and the fact that the larvae are rough and furry. There are six varieties of carpet beetles, but only four of them have been proved to be serious household pests in America. These are the common carpet beetle and the furniture carpet beetle. Of the four, the first and last species so closely resemble one another that only a microscope will show the difference. The result of their activity is also about the same.

RAISING THE GASOLINE TAX ANTE TO 4c

The pocketbook of the much harassed motorist is to be attacked again, this time by a boost of the gasoline tax from the present three to four cents a gallon, if the bill presented by D. Hale, Burke, of Stanton, should by any chance win the approval of the legislature.

Some $7,000,000 is needed for highway purposes according to present plans and Senator Burke's bill is entered by its author as a protest against the diversion of at least a similar amount from the sales tax revenues, which according to estimates are needed for school and hospital appropriations pending.

No possible fault can be found with the ultimate needs to which these moneys may be appropriated, if the assumptions of the senator are correct, but nevertheless the gasoline tax is of a certainty high enough. In its first conception the gasoline tax is nothing if not discriminatory. As matter-of-course as it has become in Michigan since its original levy, in raising the ante one-third it will take little consideration to decide that it may no longer be termed painful.

Particularly in view of the way the taxpayer is being saddled with all kinds of federal novelties, it would be a splendid time for the state to adopt a good old maximum of personal finance—spend only when, and if, you can afford it.—Mt. Pleasant Times.

Jefferson's Inventions
At Monticello, the beautiful, mountain-top mansion designed and lived in by Thomas Jefferson, are many examples of this statesman's inventive turn of mind. In the entrance hall is an enormous clock which he contrived to tell not only the time but the days of the week, as well, and which was wound by a huge crank, from a ladder. In Jefferson's own bedroom he had the bed so made that it could be raised on ropes and pulleys, and concealed in the ceiling when it was not in use. This gave him more space in the room for his work table and chairs. Perhaps it was the first roll-away or in-a-ceiling bed.

Real pearls and imitations look a lot alike, yet no one has ever successfully imitated these precious gems.

Different brands of beer look pretty much alike, too. It's the way they are made that counts. Altes Lager is brewed to the private recipe of Louis W. THE SPIRIT

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE thing we fear may come to pass, Perhaps because we fear it, Or else this world is leaves and grass. With nothing of the spirit. The thing we fear, if feared too long, Accumulates the faster, If feared too long becomes too strong. For any man to master.

The thing we dream may yet come true. Perhaps because we dream it, Or else this world is world all through. And not the world we deem it. The thing we dream, if dreamed with faith, With faith that will not waver. If dreamed with faith is not a wraith. But something surer, braver.

The thing we are decides our way. Perhaps because we will it, Or else this world is only clay. A hole, and dirt to fill it. The thing we are, the thing within. Decides, not things without us; The thing we are will make or mar. And shape the world about us.

Does an Apple Taste the Same to All People?

RECENTLY took part in an international study of what different people taste. Each person—and thousands took the test—was given a piece of paper which had been treated with a chemical. After chewing the paper a few minutes, each person wrote down what it tasted like to him. When the results were tabulated, it was found that there is a great variety in people's tastes. Some pronounced the paper sweet, others found it sour; many said it was salty; quite a number found it bitter; and still many more said it had no taste whatever. It all goes to prove that no two people taste exactly alike—just as no two people hear, see, or smell just alike. So an apple does not taste or smell quite the same to anyone else on earth as it does to you. Some people even find the odor of a skunk pleasant.

GRAPHIC GOLF

By BEST BALL

OUT OF THE BUNKER.

THERE are other methods of getting out of bunkers besides employing explosion shots. However so much has been heard about the full blast that many of the rank and file of golfers consider it the only accepted shot. In a measure this is well, too, for it is undoubtedly the safest method of lofting the ball out of the sand trap. However it is only the expert who can really gauge the actual flight of the ball with any certain degree of accuracy. There are other bunker shots which offer more in the way of accurate judgment but they are also, as a rule, more difficult of execution.

Consider for instance the short chip shot from the sand. The stroke, as the name signifies, is a short one but with a great premium on accuracy. The ball must be lying well for a clean shot, the clubface contacting the ball on the downswing and lifting it into the air, the loft of the clubface insuring the ball's rise when properly hit. The important factor is to make certain that the sand is not contacted before the ball or that the lower part of the blade does not scrape the sand before it makes impact. Only a few grains are necessary to ruin this particular shot and for that reason many of the pro golfers hesitate in advising their pupils to learn it. However, as in other departments of play, a measure of practice here will help.

FOR ECONOMY—COAL OR OIL?

A QUESTION that continually comes up is on the relative economy of heating a house by coal or by oil. There can be no general answer, because of the many conditions that enter in. For one thing, a coal fire run by hand may be efficient; much good coal may go out with the ashes. It is unusual to find a household heating plant stoked by hand, in which as much as 60 per cent of the heat in coal is actually utilized. An oil burner, on the other hand, when properly installed and adjusted, runs with much higher efficiency, and for this reason a comparison of operating costs might be unfair.

With a coal stoker, a more accurate comparison can be made, because of the higher efficiency that is possible with a machine over hand methods.

The running conditions of an oil burner are quite different from those of a coal fire. A coal fire continually delivers heat, and with no extreme difference in temperature between smoldering and burning with full draft. An oil burner, on the other hand, is either delivering no heat at all, or producing a temperature far higher than a coal fire running at full blast.

In a boiler designed for coal, the movement of hot air and gases through its inside passages is comparatively slow; there is ample time for heat to be absorbed by the metal. With an oil burner, the heated gases pass through at much higher speed; a speed that may not allow sufficient time for the metal to pick up a large proportion of the heat. Much of the heat is wasted up the chimney. Some boilers designed for coal have long passages, and are well suited to oil. This is the case with so-called "square" boilers that are made up of vertical sections. In "round" boilers the inside passages are shorter and more direct. They give good efficiency with coal, but are not well adapted to oil—moving at high speed, the heated gases are in contact with the boiler surfaces for too brief a time for maximum heat to pass to the metal.

Boilers with built-in oil burners run with high efficiency—that is, less of the heat is wasted up the chimney—than is the case when an oil burner is adapted to a boiler designed for coal. Boiler and burner being designed for each other, a high percentage of heat is utilized in heating the house.

Economy in burning oil thus depends on the conditions. With boiler designed for the quick absorption of heat, the cost of oil may be low; but whether or not it is less than the cost of operating the same boiler with coal will depend on the efficiency with which the coal is burned.
